Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

The site has high local significance . It is relatively undisturbed which may contain significant deposits of cultural material and structural remains related to the early European occupation of the area. It is the only recorded historic site in the Ballan area

Interpretation of Site	An early homestead site, lmain structure has been removed with little evidence of its location, however most likely it was situated on either the eastern part of the site given the arrangement of the plantings or on the west in the area of the pit and mound and 'platform' at top of rise - 'boulder location' does not appear to be correct [developer suggested boulder marked site of homestead]
