Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 1, 1999

What is significant?

On 15 May 1839 Patrick Geoghegan arrived in Melbourne to take up the position of priest of the newly formed parish of Port Phillip. The land on which St Francis Church stands was granted in July 1839 and shortly after the land grant was confirmed, the first mass at the site was held in a temporary chapel which had been moved to the site in June that year. St Francis Church was designed by Samuel Jackson and built between 1841 and 1845 with the foundation stone being laid on 4 October 1841, the first mass in the completed nave being held on 22 May 1842 and the completed church blessed on 23 October 1845. It became the first Catholic Cathedral in the district in 1848 following the installation of Bishop Goold, and remained the cathedral until the opening of St Patrick's Cathedral in 1869. The cedar ceiling was installed from 1850 possibly in two stages following the replacement of the original shingled roof with slate. Galleries were installed in 1853-4. The original organ, purchased at the Great Exhibition of 1851 in London, was removed to St Peters Toorak in 1972. The Ladye Chapel was designed by George and Schneider by competition in 1855 and was constructed in 1856-58, with decoration by Le Gould and Souter. A new sanctuary designed by Reed and Barnes was added in 1878-9. St Francis ceased to function as a parish church following its acquisition by the Blessed Sacrament Congregation. The Blessed Sacrament Congregation was formally installed at St Francis on 1 December 1929. Earlier buildings on the site dating from 1842 included a school (which occupied various buildings) and hall. These are no longer extant. The site of the presbytery is now occupied by the adjacent carpark.

How is it significant?

St Francis Catholic Church is of historical, architectural and social significance to the State of Victoria.

Why is it significant?

St Francis Catholic Church is of historical significance as the earliest surviving Catholic church in Victoria, and the oldest church in Victoria on its original site. The site is also historically important as having been used and occupied by the Catholic church since 1839 with the northern part of the site having been used for the associated school. It is also of historical significance for its association with a number of prominent members of the Catholic Church including Father Geoghegan, who established the first Catholic mission in Melbourne, Dr J A Goold, the first Catholic Bishop of Melbourne, and Mary McKillop who was the first member and Superior of the Sisters of St Joseph of the Sacred Heart. Mary McKillop was the first Australian put forward for beatification and canonization in 1972, and she was baptised and confirmed at St Francis.

St Francis Catholic Church is of architectural significance as the most important surviving example of early Victorian architect Samuel Jackson's work and an outstanding example of the stuccoed Gothick which was prevalent before the Gothic revival proper. The Ladye Chapel is of architectural significance as the earliest and most intact example of scholarly Puginian Gothic design in Victoria. The stained glass by Hardman of Birmingham, and painted walls and vaults, Minton tiles, and decorated Gothic design created a thoroughly medieval atmosphere that is still largely intact. The adzed kauri pine trusses of the main church are a rare surviving element of technical interest and were the longest in Melbourne at the time of erection. They still bear the original tooling marks. The cedar ceiling is a fine and rare example of pre-goldrush craftsmanship. The large semi-circular sanctuary is the first example of the use of classical detailing by the Catholic church in Victoria.

Permit Exemptions

General Exemptions:

General exemptions apply to all places and objects included in the Victorian Heritage Register (VHR). General exemptions have been designed to allow everyday activities, maintenance and changes to your property, which don't harm its cultural heritage significance, to proceed without the need to obtain approvals under the Heritage Act 2017.

Places of worship: In some circumstances, you can alter a place of worship to accommodate religious practices without a permit, but you must notify the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria before you start the works or activities at least 20 business days before the works or activities are to commence.

Subdivision/consolidation: Permit exemptions exist for some subdivisions and consolidations. If the subdivision or consolidation is in accordance with a planning permit granted under Part 4 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and the application for the planning permit was referred to the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria as a determining referral authority, a permit is not required.

Specific exemptions may also apply to your registered place or object. If applicable, these are listed below. Specific exemptions are tailored to the conservation and management needs of an individual registered place or object and set out works and activities that are exempt from the requirements of a permit. Specific exemptions prevail if they conflict with general exemptions.
