Statement of Significance

Last updated on - January 1, 2000

Individual place statement of significance::

Of historical significance as a recreational reserve created in the 1890s, with some plantings that have apparently survived. This reserve was a focal point for sporting activities in the district, mainly for cricket and football in the early years, but also as the venue for the 'Keilor Gift' and other sporting events.

Precinct statement of significance::

Of State significance as an important remnant streetscape relating to the goldfields era village of Keilor, and with several substantial and intact buildings from the Gold Rush period including the Keilor Hotel, Court House and Police Station.
