Interpretation of Site	Menn Levy and Sons acquired land on the Maribyrnong River in the 1860's. They erected a distillery for making spirits from beetroot and also produced fodder for cattle. Planted their own beet on the surrounding land. Distillery consisted 3 vessels 1000 gallons each, 2 flue boilers, powered by a 10 horse engine.
Archaeological Significance	Currently, the land is in the river reserve between the railway siding and the river. It is unlikely to have been heavily disturbed as there has been no subsequent development over the area, but it may have been covered in fill.
Historical Significance	Early and important industry for the fledgling city of Footscray. Innovative industry. Industry associated with the Maribyrnong River.
Other Names	Maribyrnong Parkland Reserve, Lynchs Ferry landing,
Hermes Number	118811
