Physical Description 1

The Koonwarra Soldiers Memorial Park is situated adjacent to the Koonwarra Public Hall. It is partly enclosed by a low chain mesh fence that extends along the front and part of the east side boundary. At the south west corner is a pair of wrought iron entry gates with the words "Soldiers Memorial" in wrought iron lettering. On the each gate is a plaque with the words "Lest We Forget" and the name of two local residents, R Barghuist and H Milson, who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War 2. Other structures in the park include a small brick cairn that commemorates 100 years of schooling at Koonwarra from 1893 and 1993, which is situated just behind a time capsule that was buried at the time of Victoria's sequicentenary in 1985. Notable plantings include a pair of Cedars.

Veterans Description for Public

The Koonwarra Soldiers Memorial Park is adjacent to the Koonwarra Public Hall on Koala Drive. It is partly enclosed by a low chain mesh fence that extends along the front and part of the east side boundary. At the south west corner is a pair of entry gates with the words "Soldiers Memorial" in wrought iron lettering. On the each gate is a plaque with the words "Lest We Forget" and the names of two local residents, R Barghuist and H Milson, who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Second World War. The Park was officially opened by WJ Buckingham MP on November 15th 1953.

Other structures in the park include a small brick cairn that commemorates 100 years of schooling at Koonwarra from 1893-1993, which is situated just behind a time capsule that was buried at the time of Victoria's sequicentenary in 1985. Some of the notable plantings include a pair of Cedars.
