Statement of Significance

Last updated on - May 24, 2006

The Gows Hotel site has no aesthetic value, but has local historical significance and some educational potential. The scientific significance of the site is considered to be moderate.

Interpretation of Site	Dargo High Plains first leased for grazing in the 1860s. Once mining commenced, hotels/accommodation houses and stores set up to cater for miners travelling to the diggings. Gows Hotel was probably built late in the 19th century and was still standing when the photograph was taken in 1909.
