STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The pair of townhouses, "Leyton" and "Rochford" at 24-26 Moorabool Street, Geelong are important survivors from the earliest years of colonial settlement at Corio Bay. This distinctive pair of Regency Italianate style villas are rare examples of the work of Surplice and Sons, Architects and are preserved in an amazing degree of intactness considering they were constructed of ashlar freestone in 1851-52. The triple arched upper level windows, restrained parapet entablature and single storey arcaded portico are dominant elements in this design which is virtually unrivalled in Victoria as an illustration of pre-gold rush urban architecture.
