DESCRIPTION

The single storey, horizontal and vertical weatherboard interwar Hall Bungalow styled Lobster Pt Dance Hall in the Barwon Heads Park is characterized by a dominant gable roof form with more recent flat roofed extensions at the sides constructed of horizontal weatherboards and galvanized corrugated iron. The roof of the Dance hall is also clad in galvanized corrugated iron. A small gable entrance portico with early double timber doors is a feature of the west gable. Other door and windows on the flat roofed sections are later additions.

Early decorative features of the design include the gable paneling and battening.
