Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Architecturally the house, with its high hipped roof and concave profile verandah, is recognisable as from the mid Victorian era although altered in detail. It forms a major part of an early housing group scattered around important former mining sites and in this case was occupied over a long period by a family strongly associated with mining (Calverley).

Physical Description 1

Of double-fronted, rubble stone construction, this house has dressed corner stones, a simple hipped corrugated iron-clad roof, two symmetrically-placed corniced chimneys and a concave-roof verandah. The verandah (ruinous) structure is timber, with corniced stop-chamfered posts, a simple bressumer-fascia and remnant timber balustrading. The front door is four-panel. There is a rear service wing (with side verandah) and what may be an altered original front fence, both of stone.

Integrity

External - Both front and side verandahs have been almost dismantled or fallen down; the stone has been painted; the chimney cornices are incomplete; intrusive service boxes have been added to the front; the stone fencing has been altered and part demolished; a rear attached timber service room has been partly dismantled and the ogee-pattern roof gutters partly removed or displaced.
