
Former Townhouse

B0475 Weathercock
Restaurant Drummond St
Carlton

Location

117 Drummond Street and S.W. Cnr Drummond Place,, CARLTON VIC 3053 - Property No B0475

Municipality

MELBOURNE CITY

Level of significance

Regional

Heritage Listing

National Trust

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - September 29, 2005

The former townhouse was erected in 1865-66 for James Henry Matthais. It appears that the facade was rendered in 1869. the two storey brick and stone structure has a tiny tower with a weather vane and a cantilevered first floor balcony to the plainly decorated facade. Although once known as the old 'Weather Bureau', the building never served that purpose.

This unique and well known building combines an incredible mixture of materials and motifs into a most unusual townhouse composition. It is one of the oldest surviving buildings and an outstanding feature of the Drummond Street precinct. The fine street facade in the conservative classical style with unusual cantilevered balcony contrasts with the picturesque tower, delightful gothic windows and exposed bluestone of the laneway facade. The original angel with trumpet that crowned the weather vane has been replaced with a weathercock.

Classified: 01/03/1973

Other Names Cinnibar House, 'Carlton Weather Bureau', The Weathercock & Cider Tavern,

Hermes Number 64772

Property Number

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>