Statement of Significance

Last updated on - October 19, 2005

Erected c 1860, the single storey stone structure comprised a banking chamber with attached residence. The plain rendered facade was originally crowned by an entablature and featured four semi-circular arched openings. The original appearance of the facade was typical of provincial bank architecture in the conservative classical style.

Part of the original entablature has been removed. The two central openings have been crudely replaced by a larger shop window. The facade has been poorly maintained.
