Statement of Significance

Last updated on - March 17, 2008

A church designed by William Wardell in the Early English style and erected in 1866-9, notable for the ecclesiological correctness of the liturgical ordering and decoration. The west front, tower and side porch, which belong to that section of the building completed in 1905, are in an unusual Free Decorated style and do not match quality of the earlier work. The brick extension of 1961, which replaced the principal sacristy, is excluded from the Classification.
