

---

DUNACH FOREST HOMESTEAD COMPLEX

---

Location

445 BECKWORTH COURT DUNACH, HEPBURN SHIRE

Municipality

HEPBURN SHIRE

Level of significance

Heritage Inventory Site

Heritage Inventory (HI) Number

H7623-0010

Heritage Listing

Victorian Heritage Inventory

---

Interpretation of Site

- stables constructed sometime between 1841 and 1848.
- Site would have been built around 1854 or later when the shearing shed was built.
- site was probably still in use in late 19th century.
- In 1905 the shearing shed was renovated and shortened to a 4 blade shed.
- shearing machines were installed in 1927.
- Dry stone used to segregate land on 1840's.
-

Archaeological Significance	-Has potential to inform on the way space was utilised on pastoral ruins in the 19th and 20th centuries. - Is likely to have intact deposits and artifacts in good condition as it is relatively undisturbed. - high potential to yield good temporal and spatial data.
Historical Significance	The complex is of local historical significance due to its association with Alexander MacCallum one of the first pastoralists in the area. The complex is also representative of grazing and raising livestock during the mid-late 19th century.
Hermes Number	7061
Property Number

History

Homestead was built in 1858 for Malcolm MacCallum and wife Julia. The Stables date to 1848 and are associated with Alexander MacCallum. The Shearing Shed and shearers quarters were built in 1854 as part of Alexander MacCallum's Dunach forest run. The 1854 shed replaced a shed which burnt down during the black Thursday bushfire.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>