
Pinus brutia

T11237 Pinus brutia

T11237 Pinus brutia

T11237 Pinus brutia

Location

Warrnambool Botanical Gardens, Botanic Street,, WARRNAMBOOL VIC 3280 - Property No T11237

Municipality

WARRNAMBOOL CITY

Level of significance

State

Heritage Listing

National Trust

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - June 14, 2023

What is significant?

Contribution to the landscape
Historical value
Outstanding example of species

The Lone Pine is of special significance to Warrnambool. It is a living link to ANZAC, Gallipoli and the battle of Lone Pine. It has been the centre of commemorative services for almost 100 years. This tree is of historical significance, being one of the four original trees raised from the 'Lone Pine' in Gallipoli. Sergeant Keith McDowell of the 23rd Battalion A.I.F. brought a pine cone back to Australia, from where the Lone Pine once stood. Upon his return he gave the cone to Mrs Emma Gray (aunt of his wife) of Grasmere who, after 10 years, successfully grew four seedlings from the cone. One was dedicated in Wattle Park, Burwood, home ground of the 24th Battalion on 7 May 1933, another was dedicated to the 24th at The Shrine on 11 June 1933. The third was planted at The Sisters Memorial Hall, Terang, on 18 June 1933. The Warrnambool specimen was planted on 21 January 1934. Only this tree and the one at Wattle Park Survive.

The tree is a fine example with a single trunk and attractive crown.

Measurements: 29/05/1990

Spread (m): 16.6

Girth (m): 2.81

Height (m): 16.8

Estimated Age (yrs): 56

Condition: Good

Measurements: 27/04/2010

Spread (m):16

Girth (m): 3

Height (m): 19

Condition: Good

Measurements: 06/09/2022

Spread (m): 19

Girth (m): 3.6

Height (m): 18

Condition: Fair

Access: Unrestricted

Classified: 14/06/1990

How is it significant?

State Significant for:

Contribution to the landscape

Historical value

Outstanding example of species

Why is it significant?

Contribution to the landscape

Historical value

Outstanding example of species

The Lone Pine is of special significance to Warrnambool. It is a living link to ANZAC, Gallipoli and the battle of Lone Pine. It has been the centre of commemorative services for almost 100 years. This tree is of historical significance, being one of the four original trees raised from the 'Lone Pine' in Gallipoli. Sergeant Keith McDowell of the 23rd Battalion A.I.F. brought a pine cone back to Australia, from where the Lone Pine once stood. Upon his return he gave the cone to Mrs Emma Gray (aunt of his wife) of Grasmere who, after 10 years, successfully grew four seedlings from the cone. One was dedicated in Wattle Park, Burwood, home ground of the 24th Battalion on 7 May 1933, another was dedicated to the 24th at The Shrine on 11 June 1933. The third was planted at The Sisters Memorial Hall, Terang, on 18 June 1933. The Warrnambool specimen was planted on 21 January 1934. Only this tree and the one at Wattle Park Survive.

The tree is a fine example with a single trunk and attractive crown.

Measurements: 29/05/1990

Spread (m): 16.6

Girth (m): 2.81

Height (m): 16.8

Estimated Age (yrs): 56

Condition: Good

Measurements: 27/04/2010

Spread (m):16

Girth (m): 3

Height (m): 19

Condition: Good

Measurements: 06/09/2022

Spread (m): 19

Girth (m): 3.6

Height (m): 18
Condition: Fair

Access: Unrestricted
Classified: 14/06/1990

Other Names Lone Pine, Calabrian Pine,

Hermes Number 70741

Property Number

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>