Statement of Significance

Last updated on - January 3, 2008

Important landmark.
Outstanding size
Historical value

Known locally as the 'Prisoner Tree', the tree is believed to have been used by police in the 1850s as a 'standby jail'. Prisoners were attached to a heavy chain around the trunk when the nearby log jail was full. The old courthouse from that period stands adjacent on the eastern side of the road

Eucalyptus microcarpa is a spreading tree which has fibrous grey bark on the trunk and lower branches, but has smooth, grey-brown bark on its upper branches. The cream coloured flowers appear from late summer to winter. The species occurs inland from the Great Dividing Range and is found in Queensland, NSW, Victoria and South Australia.

The tree is located on the western side of the road reserve and has been lopped on one side.
