History

Heritage Inventory History of Site: Boots Gully, along with others in the area, were first worked in the mid 1850s. By 1860, the alluvial miners were intensively re-working the gullies: eg., in December 1860, the mining register reported that the upper parts of Keep-it-Dark and Boots Gully were being 'systematically worked, drained, and faced out bodily'. Despite this attention, the gullies continued to attract mines: eg., in 1888, Sepold & party had a sluicing claim at Boot's Gully, near Keep-it-Dark Reef.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
