History

Heritage Inventory History of Site: The Ada River link to the Powelltown tramway was established in the 1920s and opened up some of the finest mountain ash stands in the area. The Ada No. 2 mill was fundamental to the success of the Victorian Hardwood Company in the 1920s. Construction of the mill commenced in 1920, but it was not completed until 1927 when the rail link was also completed, and did not begin operations until August 1928. The mill was closed in 1930 -31, due to the effects of economic depression and was totally destroyed by fire in 1939.
