History

The foreshore area from Bellarine St to Swanston St was reserved for dockyard use from at least 1854 (G80), and was listed as Boat Building Yards in 1893 (Downes). Blunt's Boat Yard is shown with six buildings, a slipway and a boat jetty by the 1920s (F81). All the boatyards had disappeared from this area by the late 1920s (G 347), probably as part of foreshore beautification works, and by 1937 the site had been covered by foreshore land reclamation (G389). Clement Blunt moved to this site at eastern Beach before 1870 from Port Melbourne. He had previously operated sites on the south bank of the Yarra River east of Princes Bridge, and before that in Corio Terrace Geelong. He had a house and boatbuilding yards on his premises, and built many yachts, yawls and boats here (Champ, 1989:77, 78).
