Statement of Significance

Last updated on - August 24, 2004

The house at 6 Luke Street, Stawell, has significance as a reasonably intact example of the Edwardian style. Built in the late 19th or early 20th century, this house appears to be in fair condition when viewed from the street.

The house at 6 Luke Street is architecturally significant at a LOCAL level. It demonstrates original design qualities of the Edwardian style. These qualities include the recessed steeply pitched roof form, together with the minor gable and hipped verandah (following the pitch of the main roof) that project towards the street frontage. Other intact or appropriate qualities include the asymmetrical composition, single storey height, horizontal timber weatherboard wall cladding, lapped galvanised corrugated iron roof cladding painted deep red, two unpainted brick chimneys with rendered bands and dentillated courses, modest eaves, timber framed double hung windows (including the tripartite windows under the verandah and front gable), and the timber framed doorway with sidelight and highlight.

The house at 6 Luke Street is historically significant at a LOCAL level. It is associated with residential developments in Stawell in the late 19th or early 20th century.

Overall, the house at 6 Luke Street is of LOCAL significance.

Physical Description 1

The house at 6 Luke Street, Stawell, is set on an average-sized allotment for the area. This house has a modest front setback of approximately 4-5 metres, and narrow side setbacks with a driveway along the side. The front garden is overgrown, and has some distinctive exotic shrubs.

The asymmetrical, single storey, horizontal weatherboard, Edwardian styled house is characterised by a recessed steeply pitched roof form, together with a minor gable and hipped verandah (following the pitch of the main roof) that project towards the street frontage. These roof forms are clad in lapped galvanised iron painted in deep red. Two early unpainted brick chimneys with rendered bands and dentillated courses adorn the roofline. Modest overhangs are features of the eaves.

Other early features include the timber framed double hung windows (including the tripartite windows under the verandah and front gable), and the timber framed doorway with sidelight and highlight. The timber verandah columns and cast iron brackets may have been introduced. Another feature is the window hood on the projecting gable.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
