Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 15, 2004

The house at 19 Main Street, Stawell, has significance as a moderately intact example of a Late Victorian style. Apart from the front introduced aluminium framed windows, the house appears to be intact at the front. Built in the late 19th or early 20th century, the house appears to be in fair to good condition when viewed from the street.

The house at 19 Main Street is historically and architecturally significant at a LOCAL level. It is associated with residential developments in Stawell in the late 19th or early 20th century. The house demonstrates some original design qualities of a Late Victorian style. These qualities include the hipped roof form that traverses the site, together with the rear hipped roof that projects to the side and the return ogee form verandah that projects towards the front and side. Other intact or appropriate qualities include the asymmetrical composition, single storey height, galvanised corrugated iron roof cladding, horizontal timber weatherboard wall cladding, three brick chimneys with corbelled tops, narrow eaves with paired timber brackets, panelling and paterae, timber verandah columns, brackets and fretwork valances, and the front timber framed doorway with four panelled timber door and sidelights and highlights.

Overall, the house at 19 Main Street is of LOCAL significance.

Physical Description 1

The house at 19 Main Street, Stawell, is set on a wide allotment and has a substantial front setback. This setback comprises an open grassed area with minimal perimeter plantings and some small shrubs. The front is bound by an introduced open wire fence supported by hollow steel posts.

The asymmetrical, single storey, horizontal timber weatherboard, Late Victorian styled house is characterised by a hipped roof form that traverses the site, together with a rear hipped roof that projects to the side and a return ogee form verandah that projects towards the front and side. These roof forms are clad in painted galvanised corrugated iron. Three brick (now painted) chimneys with corbelled tops adorn the roofline. Narrow overhangs with paired timber brackets, panelling and paterae are features of the eaves.

A feature of the design is the return verandah. It is supported timber columns with decorative timber brackets above which are timber fretwork valances.

Other early features of the design include the front timber framed doorway with four panelled timber door and sidelights and highlights. The flanking front aluminium framed windows have been introduced, possibly replacing timber framed tripartite double hung windows.
