Statement of Significance

Last updated on - August 27, 2004

The house at 38-40 Seaby Street, Stawell, makes a significant contribution to the predominantly single storey residential area. This house has particular significance as an intact example of the interwar Californian Bungalow style. Probably built between 1920 and 1940, the house appears to be in good condition when viewed from the street.

The house at 38-40 Seaby Street is architecturally significant at a LOCAL level. It demonstrates original design qualities of the interwar Californian Bungalow style. These qualities include the gable roof form that traverses the site, together with the two gables that project towards the street frontage. Other intact or appropriate qualities include the asymmetrical composition, single storey height, horizontal weatherboard wall cladding, galvanised corrugated steel roof cladding, brick chimney, wide eaves, boxed timber framed double hung windows, brick entrance porch and timber framed doorway. The front garden and timber post and rail and woven fence also contribute to the significance of the place.

The house at 38-40 Seaby Street is historically significant at a LOCAL level. It is associated with residential developments in Stawell during the interwar (1920s-1940s) period. This house also has associations with the former owner and local dentist, Reginald Vernon, who took over the practice of Dr. Shanasy in 1913.

Overall, the house at 38-40 Seaby Street is of LOCAL significance.

Physical Description 1

The house at 38-40 Seaby Street, Stawell, makes a significant contribution to the predominantly single storey residential area at Seaby Street. This house is set on a large and well-landscaped allotment, having mature exotic trees and shrubs, garden beds and grassed areas. The front is bound by a timber post and rail, and woven wire fence, approximately 120 mm high.

The asymmetrical, single storey, horizontal weatherboard, interwar Californian Bungalow styled house is characterised by a gable roof form that traverses the site, together with two gables that project towards the street frontage. These broad roof forms are clad in galvanised corrugated steel. An early brick chimney adorns the roofline, while wide overhangs are features of the eaves.

The boxed timber framed double hung windows are early, as is the brick entrance porch and timber framed doorway.
