Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

All Saints Roman Catholic Church was erected in 1857/58. The architect was J.B. Denny of Melbourne and the works were superintended by D. Nicholson, the local architect. The metal clad spire and tower were added in 1877. The stone church in a Decorated English Gothic style comprises a nave with a timber lined ceiling, sanctuary and west tower. There is a choir gallery and organ loft. A notable gothic revival church subscribing to Puginian principles.
