Statement of Significance

Last updated on - September 6, 1999

The Plough Inn was erected in 1864 for Hopton Nolan, the first licensee, and still remains in the Nolan family. The complex comprises a two storey brick hotel with a two tier recessed verandah flanked by projecting wings. The adjoining single storey brick stable block abuts onto the side of the hotel wing. French doors open onto the hotel verandah at both levels. Traditionally, the bricks for the complex were burned on a site opposite the hotel.

The Plough Inn and Stables retain many of their original features and form a picturesque complex set well back from the main road. The hotel is interestingly composed with recessed verandahs of timber posts and a delightful timber balustrade on the first floor. The old coaching lamp and the French windows are notable features.

Once an important coaching stop, the hotel is a landmark on the Beechworth road and forms a fine group with the neighbouring old store. It has been in the Nolan family since 1864. Buildings are generally intact. There have been extensive alterations to the interior and the exterior of the main building has been painted.

Permit Exemptions

General Exemptions:

General exemptions apply to all places and objects included in the Victorian Heritage Register (VHR). General exemptions have been designed to allow everyday activities, maintenance and changes to your property, which don't harm its cultural heritage significance, to proceed without the need to obtain approvals under the Heritage Act 2017.

Places of worship: In some circumstances, you can alter a place of worship to accommodate religious practices without a permit, but you must notify the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria before you start the works or activities at least 20 business days before the works or activities are to commence.

Subdivision/consolidation: Permit exemptions exist for some subdivisions and consolidations. If the subdivision or consolidation is in accordance with a planning permit granted under Part 4 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and the application for the planning permit was referred to the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria as a determining referral authority, a permit is not required.

Specific exemptions may also apply to your registered place or object. If applicable, these are listed below. Specific exemptions are tailored to the conservation and management needs of an individual registered place or object and set out works and activities that are exempt from the requirements of a permit. Specific exemptions prevail if they conflict with general exemptions.
