Interpretation of Site	The stone wall enclosure and short drystone wall appear similar in construction (probably 1840-1860s), the long drystone wall is of different construction (a wire fence runs along top and appears younger - 1880s-1900). The plough also dates to this period. The earlier walls may relate to early occupation of Charlottes Plain run - shepards hut was said to be located in this area.
