Situated at the intersection of the three main roads that form the heart of Tylden, this Harcourt granite obelisk is positioned at the end of the Woodend (Melbourne) and Trentham roads and framed by the deciduous trees lining both roads, providing a focus for travellers as well as residents. The memorial commemorates six deceased servicemen. An iron chain and granite post fence surrounds the monument. Originally some thirty metres away towards the present store, this memorial was moved to its present location due to road re-alignment.

Veterans Description for Public

The Tylden War Memorial is situated at the intersection of the three main roads that form the heart of Tylden, at the end of the Woodend and Trentham roads. The memorial comprises of a Harcourt granite obelisk surrounded by an iron chain and granite post fence. It was unveiled in December 1921 to commemorate the loss of six Tylden servicemen in the First World War. Originally it stood some thirty metres away but was moved to its present location due to road re-alignment.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
