
Narringal Memorial Gates and Monument

Location

Cobden-Warrnambool Road, Narringal VIC 3277

Municipality

MOYNE SHIRE

Level of significance

-

Heritage Overlay Numbers

Heritage Listing

Vic. War Heritage Inventory

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - March 10, 2005

What is significant?

The memorial gates and monument outside Narringal Public Hall were installed after World War I. The hall is situated on the Cobden-Warrnambool Road at Narringal.

How is it significant?

The memorial gates and monument outside Narringal Public Hall are of historical, aesthetic and social significance to Moyne Shire.

Why is it significant?

The memorial gates and monument outside Narringal Public Hall are of local historical significance as a memorial to the local soldiers who died in the First World War.

The memorial gates and monument outside Narringal Public Hall are of local aesthetic significance for their simple form.

The memorial gates and monument outside Narringal Public Hall are of local social significance as a local memorial, and therefore a place of pilgrimage and remembrance for the local community.

Heritage Study/Consultant	Moyne - Moyne Shire Heritage Study Stage 2, Helen Doyle in association with Context P/L, 2006;
Construction dates	1940,
Hermes Number	127483
Property Number

Physical Description 1

Memorial gates and monument installed outside the Narringal public hall, which is situated on the Cobden-Warrnambool Road at Narringal.

COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS

The memorial gates at Narringal public hall which were erected to honour local soldiers who served in world wars is a modest and utilitarian memorial compared to the other typical stone memorials popular after the First World War. Other memorial gates were installed at public sites elsewhere in the Shire . . . for example at Woorndoo recreation reserve (1945). There were also memorial gates installed at Koroit Botanic Gardens in the early 1930s and at the Mortlake (D.C. Farran) recreation reserve in 1940, although these examples do not honour fallen soldiers.

Physical Conditions

Good

Integrity

Intact

Veterans Description for Public

The Narringal Memorial Gates and Monument outside Narringal Public Hall, on the Cobden-Warrnambool Road, were installed to honour local soldiers who served in the First World War. The gates are a modest and utilitarian design compared to the other typical stone memorials popular after the First World War. Other memorial gates were installed at public sites elsewhere in the Shire for example at Woorndoo recreation reserve (1945). There were also memorial gates installed at Koroit Botanic Gardens in the early 1930s and at the Mortlake recreation reserve in 1940, although these examples do not honour fallen soldiers.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>