
STUBB'S LADIES BATHS

Location

BEACONSFIELD PARADE ALBERT PARK, PORT PHILLIP CITY

Municipality

PORT PHILLIP CITY

Level of significance

Heritage Inventory Site

Heritage Inventory (HI) Number

H7822-0462

Heritage Listing

Victorian Heritage Inventory

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - March 2, 2005

The site and the remains show evidence of a recreation type (bathing) popular in the late 1800s. Part of the recreational landscape of Melbourne and Emerald Hill

Interpretation of Site No evidence of this structure was located, but a knuckle in the seawall did correspond to the former access way shown in the geo-referenced Cox plan.

Other Names STUBBS LADIES BATHS, EMERALD HILL BATHS - EAST,

Hermes Number 13819

Property Number

History

These baths were built around the same time as Kerferd Pier, with the Emerald Hill Baths being completed first, and baths added in 1890 opposite Armstrong St. These were still present in 1910. The complex appears to have been run by Messr Stubb's in 1891. The two eastern most bath complexes were still extant in the 1920's, and all but the eastern structure had disappeared by 1923. It is unclear when the final baths complex was removed. This area functioned as a seaside resort around this time, and was serviced by trams via Victoria Avenue to the city. Many hotels serviced the tourist trade, including the Victoria Hotel, the grandest establishment on the strip. This single enclosure located between Phillipson and Bleakhouse Lane, was approximately 500 ft from shore, and was diagonal to the shoreline. This complex was named as Stubb's Ladies Baths in an 1891 plan. Stubb's Ladies Baths. These baths were the last of the complex to be removed.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>