STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

A characteristic Edwardian timber house, built in 1915. It has local architectural significance for its characteristic form, but particularly the generous verandah valence, with its horseshoe form and its fine organic fretwork details. It is historically significant as a representative embodiment of the family way of life of the period and its values, comfortable and assured, in Edwardian Newtown.

INTACTNESS:

Very good. The left side verandah has been infilled with a skillion addition. The high fence is not appropriate. Perhaps the balustrade is later. Door and sidelights are 1960's.

CONDITIONS:

Excellent

DESCRIPTION
