Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Rare or localised

Located on the western edge of the bed at Karadoc Swamp this stand is one of only 3 stands remaining in Victoria. This stand is very different in climate and character from the other two and is highly disjunct from them. It represents the extreme north-east limit of the species range and is likely to be genetically different from all other stands. Salinity is a major threat to the future of this species

03/11/2003: Many trees are dead due to salinity
