STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

'Newtown Brae' originally known as 'Woolmera' is a distinguished work of conservation Colac architect Alexander Hamilton, in a style derived from Italianate architectural traditions and which was consistently engaged for Hamilton's Western District homesteads. The original house of pre-1851, now merged with the 1885 additions, has been notable connection with important early Geelong settler Joseph Lewis. The ornamental iron verandah is a distinctive feature. James Alexander a retired Scottish pastoralist who erected the 1885 additions lived in this house for only 2 years until his death in 1887.
