Physical Description 1

The house has recently been clad in aluminium boards and decromastic roof tiles, however it was probably built with walls clad in weatherboards and roughcast and the roof in corrugated iron. The main decorative elements remain intact. These include, the chimneys with bands of cement render contrasting with the red brick and strapwork, also the timber shingles and strapwork of the gable ends, the timber fretwork on the verandah and the exceptional turret with finial.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
