STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Union Fidelity Trustees Chambers, a two storey bluestone structure with stucco rendered facade was erected in 1857 for the Colonial Bank of Australasia. The former Colonial Bank is a most distinguished Renaissance Revival design and one of the principal works of the architectural partnership of Shaw and Dowden. This finely detailed building is an example of early stucco craftsmanship. The classical tuscan portico, with double engaged columns, unusual string course entablature and palladian bar ironwork, is a most distinctive and central element in the design. The bank, which was erected in a banking precinct at the west end of Malop Street, reflects the prosperity of Geelong in the mid 19th century/
