History/Notes

A brick and weatherboard cottage had been built at 1 Upper Skene Street in the 1850s by a Mr Taylor for George Wiggs. It was either extended or replaced by a brick and timber dwelling owned by Isaac Brynton by 1873. By 1935, this dwelling had been demolished and the land sold to Albert Henry Ruffin, a fitter. He had a timber dwelling constructed by M.J. Denno at this time.

The original timber interwar Bungalow styled dwelling had a main hipped roof form, together with a minor projecting hipped wing at the front and another hipped wing at the rear. Gabled two storey additions and a garage (with terrace above) were constructed in 2000. There is also a high brick fence at the front.
