
ACER NEGUNDO

Location

COCKMAN STREET WARRNAMBOOL, WARRNAMBOOL CITY

Municipality

WARRNAMBOOL CITY

Level of significance

State

Heritage Listing

National Trust

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - December 20, 2023

What is significant?

A single Box Elder growing in the western section of the Warrnambool Botanic Gardens.

How is it significant?

This Box Elder is significant for scientific, landscape and historic reasons at the State level.

Why is it significant?

The Box Elder is scientifically significant for its unusually large size. The tree is also significant for its contribution to the landscape as it creates a nice setting and is visually spectacular when in flower. The tree has historic significance as it is a part of a collection in the historic Warrnambool Botanic Gardens. Laurence McPhee removed the '3-leafed clover' bed near the fernery when planting this Box Elder. At 63 years of age, this is a significant tree in its space and has a connection to the curator period of the Gardens.

Measurements: 06/09/2022

Spread (m): 21

Girth (m): 3.26

Height (m): 12.5

Estimated age (yrs): 63

Condition: Good

Access: Unrestricted

Classified: 28/08/2023

Other Names Box Elder,

Hermes Number 211152

Property Number

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>