STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The original buildings of Geelong Grammar School were constructed in 1912-13 following an architectural competition in which the premiated entry was submitted by Gerard Wight and Philip Hudson, acting as architects in association. The Corio site was chosen following extensive debate and controversy over removal form the Maude Street Geelong building established in 1855. The present Grammar School, appropriately designed in a Medieval Revival style is dominated by a squat clock tower and cloistered facade. The chapel, dining room, classrooms and dormitory are built of red brick with contrasting render. The school is the most distinguished private school in Victoria.
