Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Of local significance as an unsophisticated design in local stone. The 1932 work shows some influence by C.F.A. Voysey, and the English Arts and Crafts movement. The 1971 addition by John Mockridge is to his usual fine standard of design, done with great interest, sympathy and tact. Windows and other memorials are unimportant aesthetically, but are an important record of the history of the early Doncaster community. The church is of historical significance for its associations with the early settlement of the area.
