Physical Description 1

There are six houses per row: each row is parapetted and composed in two bays with Ionic porticoes central to each bay. Each bay terminates on a room sited forward from the others, at the building line, and each of these thrust rooms possesses a broken pediment at the parapet and terminates an iron ornamented verandah. Each verandah has iron picket balustrading. A lane between 1 and 3 Shields Street interrupts the rhythm of this composition. Each house is unexpectedly double fronted, given their closeness to the street and construction date: this fact is obscured by the composition.

Generally original except for the absence of the broken pediment over 11 Shields Street and parapet orbs or urns throughout: enough evidence exists on each row to restore lost elements.

Pivoted from the corner post office the two rows are major streetscape elements and contemporary with surrounding dwellings.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
