Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Architecturally, a near original and prominently sited revival design which shows little innovation after 20 years of similar designs: of regional interest as one of the few Tomkins churches.

Historically, of local importance as the only unaltered church building on this old site.

Physical Description 1

A modern church or stripped brick and stucco gothic revival church with a buttressed and gable nave, a wide-arched entrance porch, and a asymmetrically placed bell tower with a concrete spire. Generally original, except for the spire paint colour.

A major corner building which relates to the former Methodist church opposite and symbolises the historical southern extremity of the Essendon village reserve.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
