Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Architecturally, a rare but altered prefabricated metric house which is presumed to be of an early date; of potential state importance.

Historically, insufficient is known of its history, but it appears to exemplify the era of prefabrication when tradesmen and materials were unavailable (pre gold, and gold era).

Heritage Study/Consultant	Moonee Valley - Essendon Conservation Study, Graeme Butler, 1985;
Construction dates	1916,
Other Names	Prefabricated house,

Physical Description 1

A typical high hipped and slate roof, return-verandahed house, which is however, made atypical by its 1000mm modular teak wall panels, alternated with French half glazed door pairs. Internally, a narrow stair communicates with what may have been a look-out, but which appears to have later become an attic.

Verandah details altered and an attic added, the front door and a gable over, added (c1916); a basalt fence has been built at the frontage.
