Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

What is significant?

The Croxton Park Hotel at 607-617 High Street, Northcote to the extent of the surviving nineteenth century fabric.

Later additions and alterations made in the twentieth century are not significant.

How is it significant?

The Croxton Park Hotel is of local historical importance to Darebin City.

Why is it significant?

The Croxton Park Hotel has served as a public house over a long period in the city's history, occupying the site of the first hotel in the municipality. Together with its associated racing grounds, now subdivided, the hotel was also well known in Melbourne for its sporting calendar. (Criterion A)

Physical Description 1

The Croxton Park Hotel is a typical 19th century classically inspired hotel. The two-storey building is of face brick and render with a two-storey cast iron verandah. The building has been significantly altered. The ground floor window openings have been enlarged and the ground floor verandah and columns replaced. The render and face brickwork have been painted.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
