The house is near to original and a superior example of the Bungalow style which covered much of Northcote (usually in timber) immediately after World War One, prior to the effects of the Great Depression.

Physical Description 1

The house at 140 St Georges Road is a red and clinker brick house designed in the Californian Bungalow style. The house possesses typical features of the style, including triple overlapping broad roof gables which provide horizontal emphasis to the street elevation, shingled gables with slatted ventilators and exposed joist and rafter ends expressed below the gables and eaves. A large bowed leadlight window visually balances the adjoining verandah which is supported on heavy brick piers.

Leadlight double-hung sash windows look out onto the verandah. The front fence, although of matching brick and of pier construction is of a later date.

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.
