'On Friday 19th April 1912, The Governor of Victoria Sir John Fuller, was one of a large party who visited the top of Station peak for a ceremony arranged by the National parks Association, supported by the Education Department'.

A bronze tablet, embedded in rock on the western side of the peak, and bearing the following inscription was unveiled by the Governor.

"Matthew Flinders, R.N. stood on this rock to survey the Bay on May 1, 1802 - National Parks Association, 1912"

The current plaque replaces the original of 1912 and was unveiled in 1974 upon the bicentenary of the birth of Matthew Flinders.
