Usage/Former Usage

No 11 St Georges Road was designed by A. Mortimer McMillan. It demonstrates the impact of European Modernism on Melbourne domestic architecture. Its horizontal corner windows, cylindrical tower and roof garden all derive from contemporary European sources. Ratebooks from 1939 show the first owner to be Doris Powell, although the MMBW connection details suggest that F.E. White had owned the building one year earlier. While this building is stylistically removed from others in the court, its scale, simple massing and stark exterior surfaces contribute, nonetheless, to the character of the other buildings on the site.
