Physical Description 1

356 Brunswick Road, Brunswick, is a single storey rendered brick house with a terracotta tiled roof. Tiled gable and hip roofs intersect and a squat shingled tower rises at roof level. Fence stanchions and verandah columns are tiled and pebble-faced, and window and door glazing displays floral forms. The tiled entrance balcony curves around a bay and provides access to the house and yard below. The timber garage doors may have come from an old tram.

The house incorporates unusual elements and materials in a highly original composition, somewhat reminiscent of the work of Antonio Gaudi.

Key Architectural Elements: highly unusual composition and combination of architectural elements rendered brick walls timber-framed casement and double-hung sash windows irregularly pitched and terracotta tiled and shingled roof unusual detailsterracotta parapet capping, tessellated tile paving,, decorative timber garage doors adjoining shop with decorative tiled panels in parapet, original shopfront and timber door
