Statement of Significance

Last updated on - January 1, 2008

The house at 11 Davies Street, Brunswick, is of local architectural and historical Significance. It is a relatively intact example of a typical Italianate villa built for the middle class in several prime locations in Brunswick in the late 19th century. The house also has associations with an influential local builder and businessperson, David Mitchell, on whose land it was built.

Physical Description 1

11 Davies Street is an asymmetrical Italianate brick villa. Constructed of red brick and with a rendered street facade, the house has as a hipped slate roof with bracketed eaves and three brick chimneys, one of which retains its original unpainted render finish. The verandah has cast iron lacework frieze; its roof is clad with corrugated iron. The windows are timber-framed double-hung sashes and have rendered moulded dressings. A moulded string course runs across the facade, and a decorative frieze sits under the eaves.

Key Architectural Elements:

19th century rendered Italianate facade
hipped slate roof

Conservation Guidelines:

Repair slate roof
reinststate original or sympathetic front fence
