Statement of Significance

Last updated on - May 21, 1999

This is an important example of a portable station building for it is one of only two in tact examples of its type. It also features double roofed and ventilated construction with sunhoods over the windows to combat the prevailing climatic conditions. Other important elements within the station ground are the platform gardens, reminiscent of many an abandoned station garden scattered across the state, the posts, reputed to be part of the old hitching rail and the open shelter for fresh fruit traffic. Thus, Irymple is both representative of portable station buildings practice across the state network and equally importantly, reflects the special needs of its region.

Permit Exemptions

General Exemptions:

General exemptions apply to all places and objects included in the Victorian Heritage Register (VHR). General exemptions have been designed to allow everyday activities, maintenance and changes to your property, which don't harm its cultural heritage significance, to proceed without the need to obtain approvals under the Heritage Act 2017.

Places of worship: In some circumstances, you can alter a place of worship to accommodate religious practices without a permit, but you must notify the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria before you start the works or activities at least 20 business days before the works or activities are to commence.

Subdivision/consolidation: Permit exemptions exist for some subdivisions and consolidations. If the subdivision or consolidation is in accordance with a planning permit granted under Part 4 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and the application for the planning permit was referred to the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria as a determining referral authority, a permit is not required.

Specific exemptions may also apply to your registered place or object. If applicable, these are listed below. Specific exemptions are tailored to the conservation and management needs of an individual registered place or object and set out works and activities that are exempt from the requirements of a permit. Specific exemptions prevail if they conflict with general exemptions.
