Physical Description 1

This landmark brick building in Gothic-Early English style, St Andrews, set high on Berwick's High Street hill, is of architectural interest for its broad four-bay buttressed nave with plate-tracery windows. (1) It has a slate roof featuring scalloped tile decoration, and roof vents. The walls are constructed of red brick with rendered trim generally in good condition but requiring repairs to the gable parapet. The pointed arch windows with circular highlight are features of each bay with two tall arched windows and high circular vent to light the ends of the church. A new brick entrance porch has been added to the front of the church. (2) Established European trees exist on the site, adjacent to the church.
