Statement of Significance

Last updated on - January 7, 2010

What is significant?

The 1988 emergency operations centre and the surrounding site to the title boundaries.

How is it significant?

The emergency operations centre is architecturally, aesthetically, socially and historically significant to the Shire of Nillumbik.

Why is it significant?

The emergency operations centre is architecturally and historically significant as a good and rare example of a large public building constructed in a 1980s version of the 'Eltham style', and as a rare attempt to adapt the 'Eltham-style' aesthetic to meet the changing demands of the Shire in the 1980s (Criteria B, D & E). The emergency operations centre is architecturally and aesthetically significant because it is constructed of mud brick and features: a central entry with a tile mural (Criterion E). The emergency operations centre is socially significant because it is a focal point for the community and has played an important role in protecting the community since 1988 (Criterion G).
