Statement of Significance

Last updated on - June 26, 2008

Built in 1914, Heald Lawn is of significance as the house designed by the leading architect Henry Kemp for himself and is a key example of his use of the gabled form of Melbourne Queen Anne house. The existence of the original timber gate and picket fence and the existence of another work by Kemp's firm of Inskip and Kemp, next door at No 7, completed in 1910, enhances the significance.
