Statement of Significance

Last updated on - October 17, 2006

A commercial building of 1882 with the original parapet much simplified and the shop fronts and verandah at ground level much altered, but of interest in that it was occupied by the Civil Service and Public Supply Association and also because the treatment of the upper floor, with a screen of coupled Corinthian pilasters across the wall and arched windows, is an ingenious modification of the Palladian motif to accommodate the unequal bays of the building.
